

A FAREWELL TO PRIMARY SCHOOL

Wow, High School! It feels so weird knowing that Primary School is soon over. All the adventures we've been through, all the fun we had, but there were also sad moments ... For these eight years we had each others back, we trusted each other and now it feels like we're all a big happy family. I know every member of that family well, I know their feelings, their thoughts and emotions. It's quite an honour to be a part of their lives. At the first day of school I was so excited not knowing what was waiting for me out there, but soon - I found out. What was waiting for me was a big package filled with fun, tears, joy and most important friends. For all these years I've been feeling like I was in a safe house, nothing bad could ever happen to me while I was a part of it, at least I like to think so. I love the feeling of safety. It brings me comfort. But now, at the end of Primary School I feel kind of lost. I know that people see me as an adult now, but nobody sees that I'm still a kid. We all are, but big decisions have been put in front of us and now it's our time to decide which direction we are going to choose. Some of us know, some of us don't, but we will have to find out sooner or later. All I know is that I'm going to miss my big family, my safe house, but the new life is waiting out there for us and we're soon going to step into it. So, farewell Primary School, farewell my safe house and thank you for making me a person that I am today.

IT'S NOT EASY TO BE A TEENAGER

Why my parents don't understand me? I'm just a teenager who loves adventures and jokes. It's not easy to be a teenager because parents and grandparents want me to become serious and do houseworks. They don't understand that teenagers have a lot to study and that is hard. They don't understand that teenagers don't have time to do everything they want. Adults often speak that I am lazy but I'm not. I just want to sleep because of hormonal changes of puberty and sleep is essential for my growth. I scream and fight with my brother, I talk back to my parents when I shouldn't. Adults don't remember when they were teenagers and what they did. But to be a teenager have good sides too. You have a lot of fun, you can go to cinema, your parents pay and buy your clothes and they buy what you want, and you fall in love for the first time. I forget to write a very important thing - you have great friends who are funny, reliable and honest. So, when I think about each side, good and bad, I realise that it is better to be a complaining teenager than an adult.

TEENAGERS AND THEIR HOBBIES AND INTERESTS

People often say that teenagers and their occupations in free time have changed if you take a look at them a decade ago and nowadays. That is the reason why I decided to give my opinion about that. I don't actually know many facts about the average life style of a teenager 20 years ago, but I know for sure that they did not have such developed technology so that must have affected their hobbies and interests. Those days, teens spent much more time outdoors, going on trips, hiking, running and riding their bikes, which is totally opposite of today. Nowadays, most teenagers, especially guys, don't get off the computer games. Girls aren't much better too. They can spend a whole day on Facebook, just give them opportunity. But not all teenagers are like that. Luckily, a lot of us go out in the evenings in the mall, we do sport and stuff, we go into the nature; we spend our time in a better way than just staring into the screen. Well, according to what I've said teenagers are pretty social, either virtually or in the real life, but it seems to me much more in the virtual sense and that becomes their only hobby. So definitely yes, I agree with what people say - teens have changed their interests and habits during the years, but that's just the way the world works now, in the modern age, and we simply adjusted to that.

UNA MATTINA NELLA MIA CASA

La mattina nella mia casa è molto tranquilla. La mia famiglia ha quattro membri. Ognuno di noi si alza ad un'altra ora e tutti hanno una mattina diversa. La mia mamma si alza molto presto, alle tre. Lei va al lavoro in macchina e passa tutta la mattina al lavoro. Lei si prepara per lavoro molto tranquillamente per non svegliarci. Il mio papà si sveglia alle sette ed entra subito nel bagno per fare la doccia. Poi ci alziamo io e mia sorella e ci prepariamo per la scuola. A scuola andiamo a piedi, perché abitiamo vicino alla scuola. Questa è una mattina solita a casa mia. Dopo tutto, a casa non c'è nessuno fino alla sera. La sera quando tutti torniamo a casa, passiamo il tempo insieme.

DANI KRUHA I ZAHVALNOSTI U LISTOPADU

Dok je Split polako oblačio jesenje odijelo i ove godine su se u našoj školi okupili naši i đaci da na Danima kruha pokažu svoje umijeće u pravljenju tijesta i recitiranju prigodnih pjesama. U atriju škole priređena je izložba kruha u svim oblicima: obasjala su nas tijesta u obliku sunca, smiješio se bucmasti brašnjava mjesec, skoro poletio leptir, a mirisi obećavali pravi gurmanski užitak. Prekrasne oblike kruha i kolača u stopu su pratile košare aranžirane jesenskim voćem. Sve je to blagoslovio pater Petar Galić. Kao i uvijek recitatori učiteljice Marije Nikolić su besprijekorno odradili svoju ulogu. Ova velika pekarska fešta imala je i svoj humani značaj, naime sav kruh, voće i ostali plodovi zemlje darovali su se splitskim beskućnicima i svima potrebitima za koje skrbi udruga Most.

A PANDA'S STORY

Dear diary, Another day just started, and once again I stand amazed by the beauty of nature.

Hidden between the green bombooes, I watch my friends. Big, but kind and loving parents, laugh while playing with their babies. Through the game, they teach them about important things in life. When the babies get tired, they fall asleep in their parents' black-and-white, soft coats.

Everything looks so peaceful! Then I remember all the dangers around us and I ask myself: "Will we be able to stay this way?" I still remember the distant times, when the forests were bigger, when there were more of us. Every day some of us disappear. We wait for them hoping that they will return. But they never do. Some say that is because they get killed. I really don't see why would someone do that. I mean, we never did something bad to them, did we? Warm wind starts blowing, like it wants to make me forget my dark thoughts. Sad, but still with hope, I set my gaze on bright Sun, hoping that it will shine on our future.

IF MY DOG COULD TALK

Unfortunately, I really do have a dog's life. My name is Rex and I have a very uncaring owner. My owner Tom is a business man who is almost never at home. He goes to work early in the morning and comes home late at night, so I never get to see him. Whenever he is at home, he never takes me for a walk or plays with me. It's so boring in this empty house. In fact, the only good thing in my life is the nice old lady down the street. She always gives me something to eat, takes me to park and combs my hair. One day I hope to escape from this prison and be free or at least live with the nice lady down the street. Chewing is my favourite thing to do. That's why my owner is missing a few of his shoes and it serves him right after the way he treats me. Dear owners, this is my message to all of you. If you are thinking about buying a dog, please make sure that you have enough time for him.

MUM I'D LIKE TO HAVE A DOG

I'm a pupil who goes in the eight grade, so I think that I have enough responsibility to have a dog. The way I see it, having a dog as a pet is nice if you can take good care of it and let it be your best friend. Here is what I think about dogs. They are very good friends because they never let you down. They have always time for you, so you can play with them whenever you can. Dogs make you take exercise and go for a walk every day. That's why owning a dog is good for my health. I am a person who likes action so I won't be lazy to take it for a walk or to vet's. I'll feel protected wherever I go with my dog. I can give it enough love and companionship what is very important. But, my mum is against me again. This is what she always repeats to me: "You don't have enough free time to take it out when it needs it. You are lazy to get up early in the morning and your dog won't be able to wait for you!" Then I started thinking about the bad sides. Taking it to vaccinations and buying food can be too expensive. I'll always have to think where to go with my dog because they are not allowed to go into shops, restaurants or buses. My dog will get depressed if I leave it alone a lot. I can also have problems with my neighbours because dogs bark loudly. I will always have to clean up after my dog. And the last and the most important is that when I travel somewhere I'll have to think who will take care of my dog. So, there are lots of problems I may have if I have a dog as a pet. To conclude: before buying a dog people usually think only about the good sides, just like me. I am thankful to my mum because she made me think about the bad sides as well. The problem is that I still think that I can take a good care of it and give it enough love and my free time as it deserves. That's why I'll be persistent and I won't give up about my wish to have a dog as a pet and my best friend.
